

BOOKBLURB

for

Travel the Wicked Road

M. L. Sanford

Eaton Prescott's young life, and path, was so far—well, in his words 'lacking in everything that one could possible desire, or achieve'. Love, money, self-esteem, good looks, outgoing personality . . . well the list could go on and on. Little did he know that his path, the one that he would just as soon throw away and start over, was about to cross with a few other important ones—and something else. The 'something else', something wicked, he could do without, but then, do we have much choice on what road we take, which path we travel, or collide with?

Sheriff Bud Bustovf's life, and path, was about to tumble into retirement, and in his mind, retiring only meant 'sinking into uselessness, no longer of value to the citizens of New Gamore'. Little did he know, retirement was going to be anything but boring and quiet, his path too, about to cross many others, all unexpected, all life changing for him, and them. His new road, the one forced on him, uncovers buried secrets, missing people that turned into unexplained deaths, and new ones, deaths that is, all testing his grasp on reality, and his long held understanding of the family history, and his little town's death and rebirth.

These are just a few of the odd and interesting character's introduced in the supernatural, suspense and mystery thriller, Travel the Wicked Road, by author M.L. Sanford. Oh, and don't forget the little town of Gamore, its horrific end and curious reincarnation as New Gamore. Their paths cross, and twist, in a most unnatural way, the road leading to one of them fraught with that wicked something that many, including Eaton Prescott and Sheriff Bud Bustovf, would do anything to avoid—if only they knew.

Published by ArchitectM, Inc.
Decatur, Ga. 30030